Course summary

The Course in Wound Closure (11257NAT) develops the knowledge and skills required for Nurses, GPs and other relevant Healthcare Workers to safely assess the need for, and perform, wound closure in a variety of settings.

As part of this one-day course, you will have the opportunity to explore a range of wound closure, wound care and suturing methods and learn the unique benefits and limitations of each wound closure and suturing technique that must be considered in each individual case.

Students will be provided with our Wound Closure Student Kits on the day, which will be used throughout the practical parts of the workshop.

Learning outcomes

At the successful completion of the Course in Wound Closure (11257NAT), students will have the knowledge and skills to determine the best wound closure technique for each situation to achieve durability and simplicity.

Students will develop the ability to close wounds using a variety of methods and materials including sutures, skin staples, tissue adhesive and adhesive strips.

Course content

The workshop day is primarily skills-based with approximately 2hrs of theory intermittently delivered throughout the day, whilst the remainder is practical skills development.

The practical elements will include the demonstration and practice of various suturing techniques, use of tissue glue and staples to close wounds.

Simulated wound closure is performed using animal skin to simulate human tissue. The trainer is there to guide and help you develop your technique and will be constantly checking your work and assessing your technique during each session.

Assessment

To achieve competency in this course, students must:

- Competently complete a theory assessment covering essential knowledge and skills
- Demonstrate competency through a series of continuous practical skills assessments throughout the duration of the course, including the demonstration of various wound closure techniques.

At the end of this course you will receive a Statement of Attainment and a Certificate of Attendance.

Bundle Option

The Course in Wound Closure is available to purchase as a bundle. No need to complete both courses straight after each other, the beauty of the bundle is both the reduced cost and the flexibility to complete each course at a time that suits you.
